Train or re train the dog.

If you use methods based on positive reinforcement (rewarding your dog for behaviors you like so that they happen more often), teaching your dog some useful obedience skills will strengthen the relationship between the two of you.

It will also provide an opportunity for you to interact with your dog in a positive way.

Best to do obedience training {See articles about training and conditioning on this website.}

After you've taught your dog a few useful skills, you can use them in your treatment plan.
